CACJ President-Elect

Ann C. Moorman is the founder and sole shareholder in the Law Offices of Ann C. Moorman with offices in Berkeley, California and Ukiah California. She graduated from Golden Gate University School of Law in 1987. She served as the Associate Editor of the Women's Law Review, received academic excellence awards and was elected by the members of her class to be the 1987 Class Commencement Speaker. In 1988, she joined the law firm of Jordan and Osterhoudt where she began her career as a trial lawyer under the mentorship of Susan B. Jordan and William L. Osterhoudt. She left the firm in 1991 to begin her own practice where she remains today. She is recognized as an experienced and aggressive trial lawyer focusing on representation in complex criminal matters in state and federal courts. She has handled matters ranging from RICO prosecutions, homicide, and narcotics distribution to bank fraud, criminal tax and insider trading. In 2007 she was admitted as a Fellow in the American College of Trial Lawyers, an honor reserved for those trial lawyers with extensive experience and a reputation for professionalism. She serves on several committees at the request of the Presiding Judge of the Northern District of California concerning the review of United States Magistrates, attorney discipline as well as the disbursement of non-appropriated funds. She is the current Vice President of California Attorneys for Criminal Justice. She is a member of the National Association of Criminal Defense Lawyers, Women Defenders, and Families Against Mandatory Minimums.
